

Practical Atheism:
Praying By Faith

Practical Atheism:

Stating a belief in God but living as if He does not exist.

“As John Calvin said, humans are incurably religious creatures, and our secular age offers all kinds of God-replacements: sex, self, stuff, state, science. Ironically, a secular age is still filled with faith—just in all the wrong gods. These gods mark us in their images in profoundly dehumanizing ways.”

- John Stonestreet

Practical Atheism:
Praying By Faith

Practical atheism treats prayer
like a last resort rather than a powerful weapon.

Practical atheism treats prayer
like a one-time event rather than a way of life.

Practical atheism treats prayer
like a time of competition
instead of reflection.
